Delivery

When it comes to delivery, a number of methods are available depending upon the size and weight of the ordered goods: package, pallet and custom. For users of the website, once items have been placed in the basket, the customer will be asked to specify 'collection' or a UK Post Code, after which either a zero cost or the most cost effective delivery method will be calculated.

Where an order is calculated to weigh less than 25kg AND is less than 1.0m maximum dimension, then Package delivery (or a multiple of packages) will be handled by Fedex. This is typically a next day service Monday to Friday from the point of despatch.

For orders less than 4.5m length AND less than two tonnes, Pallet delivery will be selected. The providers we use are connected to the UK pallet service networks and are cost effective across the UK mainland, but less so, or indeed don't always provide service to the surrounding islands. Delivery target is next day Monday to Friday from the point of despatch. The delivery will be coordinated with the customer requirements.

For orders which fall outside of the above categories (Bulk), the website will prompt the customer for an email/phone number and send the basket contents to Coyle Timber staff in order that a custom delivery quote can be provided.

More specific Pallet/Bulk delivery timings are available at extra cost. Contact Coyle Timber for details.

Pallet/Bulk deliveries are offloaded to the kerbside or nearest ground floor area.
